twentieth century literature about the distinction between explanation and understanding second can we do justice to a particular writer s notion of that category by taking at face value what he writes about his own motivation for adopting it in response to both types of questions there is by now a consensus amongst many historians of science and of philosophy that a intellectual history like other kinds of history has to be careful not to uncritically adopt actors categories and b more generally even the actors own thinking about a particular issue has to be contextualized vis à vis their other intellectual commitments and interests as well as the complex conditions that make the totality of their commitments possible such conditions include cognitive as well as practical institutional and cultural factors the articles in this volume respond to these challenges in several ways for example one author christopher pincock seeks to read some of the nineteenth century philosophical writings about erklären and verstehen as standing for a more fundamental problem which he terms the problem of the unity of experience
